HyperMotion is the first soccer title to offer FIFA-based player likeness and Physical Setup,” where players are assigned a total of 3,000 physical attributes and 1,000 skills. This makes it easier to see how a player looks, and how they move when they have the ball. Additionally, the introduction of the “One Touch Physics” with FIFA 22 allows players to move the ball with more certainty, putting a greater focus on the overall skill of the player during their shot, pass, dribble or tackle. HyperMotion also includes an immersive narrative that unites the six new teams for FIFA 22. An official team badge will also be available to show players’ unique club backgrounds, while players with deeper club backgrounds will earn more FIFA coins. The newly introduced player individuality feature will allow players to personalise their character by adding traits and defining their appearance to reflect their style.
